FROM CAIRO.—The following is the latest dispatch from this point, dated April 26th: The Provost Marshal of this port has lately done a big thing in the way of ridding the town of the hosts of disreputable females who daily and nightly throng our streets. There was a floating craft somewhere in the upper portion of the town, near the stone depot tied to a tree some dozen rods or more from the levee, occapied as a brothel, into which were congregated a crowd of abandoned females with their no less abandoned male associates. Despairing of ridding the town of their the presence by a legitimate method, a Provost Marshal's guard, last night, cut the rope, and towing the craft with its occupants out into the current, cast loose, and started the concern down to Dixie. to delight the first families of chivalrydom. When last heard from, the expedition was gaily floating down the broad Mississippi, nine miles below Columbus. They had hoisted the white flag-a white petticoat- and if they escape the dangers of the flotilla, and succeed in eluding the vigilance of the artillerymen at Fort Pillow, and the rebel gunboats, they will speedily grace the sweet scented city of Memphis with their odorous presence.
